From Vice-Chancellor's Desk

The livestock sector is a cornerstone of India's rural economy, and value addition in animal products such as dairy, meat, wool, manure and hide opens new avenues for economic growth and entrepreneurship. By transforming raw animal products into high-quality, market-ready goods, we empower farmers, small-scale producers, and aspiring entrepreneurs to enhance their income and contribute to food security. From developing nutrient-rich dairy products to crafting premium leather goods, the opportunities for innovation are vast. These efforts not only boost local economies but also promote sustainable practices that reduce waste and maximize resource utilization. Equally important is the role of value-added animal products in improving human health. Fortified dairy products, functional foods, and bioactive compounds derived from animal sources are revolutionizing nutrition and wellness. By integrating scientific advancements in veterinary and food technology, we can create products that address malnutrition, enhance immunity, and cater to modern dietary preferences. At RAJUVAS, our research and training programs are geared toward equipping students with the knowledge to innovate in this space, ensuring that animal-derived products meet stringent safety and quality standards for consumer well-being. Our curriculum emphasizes hands-on training, industry collaboration, and exposure to cutting-edge technologies, enabling students to become leaders in the livestock and food processing sector. I encourage our students to explore these dynamic career paths, where they can make a tangible difference in improving livelihoods and promoting sustainable practices. RAJUVAS remains steadfast in its mission to drive innovation and entrepreneurship in the livestock sector. Through our research, outreach programs, and industry partnerships, we aim to empower communities, enhance human health, and create sustainable livelihoods. Let us continue to work together to harness the potential of value-added animal products, paving the way for a healthier, more prosperous future.
